DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 22-24 and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vaiani.

Regarding claims 22 and 27, Vaiani teaches in the figures most of the elements of the claimed invention, including a helical section (70), a handle being integral with said helical section (fig.2), the handle comprising a straight section (72,74) and metal material (col. 4, par. 3). Regarding claim 22 and 23, Vaiani fails to teach the helical section's length ranging from about two and three quarters inches to about six inches and the handle length ranging from about 3 ½ inches to about 6 ½ inches. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the helical section's length of Vaiani ranging from about two and three quarters inches to about six inches and the handle's length ranging from about 3 ½ inches to about 6 ½ inches since it known in the art to have the helical section and handle between the claimed range for the purpose of grasping the end of the handle.

Regarding claim 24, Vaiani fails to teach the helical section's diameter ranging from about ¼ inch to about 1 inch. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the helical section's diameter Vaiani ranging from about ¼ inch to about 1 inch since it known in the art to have the helical section for the purpose of providing a different size for different sized people.

Claim 25 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vaiani in view of Bidwell.

Vaiani teaches in the figures most of the elements of the claimed invention, as noted above. However, Vaiani fails to teach words printed along the length of the coils. Bidwell teaches a spring member (fig.4) having a word ("graphic") printed thereon. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to apply printed words as taught by Bidwell in the helical section of Vaiani for the purpose of providing excitement when bouncing the spring.

Claim 26 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vaiani in view of Molenaar.

Vaiani teaches in the figures most of the elements of the claimed invention, as noted above. However, Vaiani fails to teach a colored coiled toy. Molenaar teaches in figures 1-7 a coil spring toy (12) having a line in a configuration of a figure 42 made of paint, ink or colored plastic material secured or applied to the toy (col. 5, par. 7). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to apply color as taught by Molenaar to the coiled toy of Vaiani for the purpose of providing interest to the child when playing with the toy (col. 6, lines 13-16).
